Survey of Americans

NATIONAL  POST

DATE 2024-08-29

Methodology

Method

An online survey among 1,032 Americans 18 years of age or older.

Respondents were randomly recruited using LEO's online panel.

When

August 23 to August 25, 2024.

Margin of error

For comparison purposes, a probability sample of this size yields a margin of error no greater than $\pm 3.05\%$, (19 times out of 20).

Weighting

Results were weighted according to age, gender, region, education, race, number of people in the household in order to ensure a representative sample of the American population.

Methodology

Significant differences

Data in bold red characters indicate a significantly lower proportion than that of other respondents. Conversely, data in bold green characters indicate a significantly higher proportion than that of other respondents.

Rounded data

The numbers presented have been rounded up. However, the numbers before rounding were used to calculate the sums presented and might therefore not correspond to the manual addition of these numbers.

Questions

Have questions about the data presented in this report? Please contact Andrew Enns, Executive Vice-President, Central Canada at the following e-mail addresses: aenns@leger360.com

A more detailed methodology is presented in the Appendix.

Key highlights

Some of the key highlights from our U.S. Politics Survey include...

Harris is slightly ahead, but the race is still close.

- If the presidential election were held today, Harris would receive 50% of the votes and Trump 46%. Those results are stable when compared to July.
- When we asked Americans who they think will win the election in November, Kamala Harris and Donald Trump were tied at 50%. The same is true for who Americans think will win the next presidential debate in September—51% think Harris will win, and 49% think Trump will.

One-third of Americans don't know the vice-presidential candidates enough to form an opinion.

- Overall, around half of Americans (47%) have an unfavorable opinion of Donald Trump, while 43% have a favorable opinion of him, and 5% don't know him enough to have an opinion. Regarding his vice-presidential candidate, JD Vance, 26% have a favorable opinion of him, 35% have an unfavorable one, and 34% don't know him enough. Among Republican voters, 85% have a favorable opinion of Trump and 55% of JD Vance.
- Overall, 44% of Americans have a favorable opinion of Kamala Harris, 39% have an unfavorable opinion, and 12% don't know her well enough to have an opinion. Regarding the vice-presidential candidate Tim Walz, 34% have a favorable opinion of him, 27% have an unfavorable one, and 34% don't know him well enough. Among Democratic voters, 81% have a favorable opinion of Harris, and 64% have a favorable opinion of Tim Walz.
- Four out of ten Americans (39%) believe the Democratic Convention was better than the Republican one (29%). Among Democratic voters, 80% preferred their convention, while 71% of Republican voters favored theirs.
